Name	What I did after Leaving Homefield Preparatory School	What I am doing now
David Wilkinson	I went to Epsom College, my first job was with Lloyds bank. My last was as a taxation specialist with the Science and Technology Facilities Council. Between these my career progressed through NHS hospital financial management, loading dynamite for a seismic survey team and, finally, managing a graphic design and advertising studio.	I have now retired, but still occasionally advise on VAT for the research community
Bjarne Sumelius	Moved back to Finland	Went into the hotel and restaurant business. After 34 years retired in 2005.
