Name	What I did after Leaving Homefield Preparatory School	What I am doing now
Rhys Reeves	I left Homefield early, end of year 4 and was then home-schooled for the rest of that schooling era but soon went to Carshalton Boys Sports College to do my GCSE's and A levels. During this time, I found a love for social sciences. I studied sociology and psychology in GCSE, and then moved onto studying Sociology, criminology, and Government & politics for my A levels.	I'm currently studying Criminology at the University of Kent. It's my first year, and it's going great so far. I'm very active in the MMA society and might try participating in some competitions soon. But until then I'm not fighting anyone except deadlines.
Huw Shopland	I started Sutton Grammar in year 7 and am now in Year 10 studying for me GCSE's	Not quite sure what I'd like to do in the future but am considering something to do with engineering. I still love playing rugby, a hobby which was started at Homefield.
